

Conexant Systems - Shenzhen, China Design and Project Management

Conexant Systems is a leader in semiconductor solutions for broadband communications for the digital home. Conexant's innovative semiconductor system solutions enable global access networks, and are driving digital home information and entertainment networks worldwide. The company is headquartered in Newport Beach, California and has offices throughout the world. Having successfully completed multiple projects for Conexant in other international location such as Seoul, Chengdu and Shanghai, top executives asked AsiaPac International for assistance in their Shenzhen location.

For this project Conexant required site selection, interior design, and project management assistance. The company was seeking to renovate a 17,211 square feet office space. The AsiaPac team delivered a well organized space plan that combined their existing lab and separate office spaces into one area. AsiaPac completed the project two weeks ahead of schedule and 15% under budget.
